

1

One hour of physical activity

Our physical fitness not only contributes to our physical health, but can also improve our mental health. Activities such as going for a walk, joining a dance class, or shooting hoops at the gym can all help reduce anxiety, depression and stress.